

BIG CONVERSATION FRAMEWORK

Suggested Study Guide

A suggested way to work through the Facilitator Guide and be ready for your assessment. Take what is useful and ignore the rest.

START HERE

The Facilitator Guide is not as long as it looks. It is built to be moved around in rather than read cover to cover, and most people are through it faster than they expect.

Begin with the Quick Start Guide. The guide says so itself, and it is good advice. Six pages that give you the whole shape of a session before you meet any of the detail.

There are two things to decide before you begin: how you want to pace it, and whether you read better on screen or on paper.

The assessment is 60 questions and takes up to 60 minutes, online, with a 75 per cent pass mark. You will have your folder and your notes with you. You can retake it if you need to. Nobody is trying to catch you out.

TWO THINGS THAT MAKE THIS MUCH EASIER

Every Part opens with a summary

Parts 2 to 7 all begin with an In summary page. Read it first, then the detail, then come back to the summary. If it now reads as obvious, that Part has landed. If anything on it still feels unfamiliar, you know where to go back to.

Parts 5, 6 and 7 are the same shape

All three workshops follow an identical structure: session flow, objectives, overview, room set-up, then the script through seven steps. Learn Part 5 properly and the other two are variations rather than new material.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED

- | | |
|---|--|
| ☐ Your Facilitator Guide, in a ring binder if you are working from paper | ☐ A work mat, out on a table |
| ☐ A pen, and a highlighter if you use one | ☐ A notebook, or paper for writing things in your own words |
| ☐ Post-it notes or index tabs | ☐ Somebody to practise on, even for ten minutes |

Tab the Quick Start Guide, the Step 6 script for each workshop and the lingo bingo answers on page 5.13. Those are the pages you will reach for on a workshop day.

The two day run

For people who would rather clear it in one go, and who have two clear days.

DAY ONE, MORNING

- ☐ Quick Start Guide, then Part 1
- ☐ Part 2, reading the summary page first
- ☐ Post-it anything you want to return to rather than stopping

DAY ONE, AFTERNOON

- ☐ Part 3, then Part 4
- ☐ Write out the 4 Ps and the seven step structure in your own words
- ☐ Say two or three Say and Ask prompts out loud

DAY TWO, MORNING

- ☐ Part 5 in full, with the Big Conversation mat in front of you
- ☐ Read the Step 6 script aloud at the pace you would use in a room
- ☐ Parts 6 and 7, looking for what differs rather than rereading what repeats

DAY TWO, AFTERNOON

- ☐ Licence terms in the front of the guide, and Part 8
- ☐ Put the folder down and describe all three workshops from memory
- ☐ Work through the self check, then sit the assessment

Forty five minutes a day

For people fitting it around life. Around three weeks, and it suits anyone who retains more in short sittings.

WEEK ONE

- ☐ Quick Start Guide, then Part 1, then three sittings on Part 2
- ☐ Say the Say and Ask prompts out loud as you meet them
- ☐ End of week: explain the framework out loud to someone, without notes

WEEK TWO

- ☐ Two sittings on Part 3, two on Part 4, with a mat on the table
- ☐ Write the 4 Ps and the seven steps in your own words
- ☐ End of week: talk through one mat with the folder closed

WEEK THREE

- ☐ Part 5, then Part 6, then Part 7. One a day
- ☐ Licence terms and Part 8 in one sitting
- ☐ Self check, then the assessment

EVERY SITTING

- ☐ Start by recalling what you covered last time before you open the guide
- ☐ Stop at the end of a section rather than mid way through one

Quick Start

Q1 to Q6

Start here, whatever else you do

Purpose, your role, what to bring, room set-up, the suggested agenda, key principles and the table of what to try when a group stalls. Read it first and read it again the night before your first workshop. It has its own page numbering, so it sits apart from the Parts.

Value

VP.1 to VP.5

Value proposition for licensees

Why the framework exists and what licensing gives you. Useful when you are explaining yourself to a client or a commissioner. Read once and move on.

Part 1

1.1 to 1.4

The resource

About huunuu, why these topics matter, what the resource enables and how it differs. Context rather than facts. Do not linger. The one thing to take is that this framework is about questions rather than answers.

Part 2

2.1 to 2.20

Facilitation skills and preparation

The longest Part and the one to slow down on. Duty of care, your own wellbeing, behaviours to embody and avoid, the 4 Ps, learning styles, dealing with adversity, room and kit, timings. These are behaviours rather than information, so reading alone will not embed them. Say things out loud as you go, even to an empty room.

Part 3

3.1 to 3.12

Workshop overview

Expectations on both sides, the seven workshop objectives, your toolkit and products, the pre-workshop checklist and the Say and Ask language. Say and Ask runs through every script in the guide, so make sure you can explain the difference before you move on.

Part 4

4.1 to 4.6

The huunuu work mats

How a mat works: the scribe, the personal hub, the generation effect and the shape of Steps 1 to 5, Step 6 and Step 7. Have a mat physically in front of you while you read this. It will take five minutes with one and much longer without.

Parts 5, 6, 7

5.1 to 7.21

The three workshops

Big Conversation, Legacy Giving and Time to Talk. Identical architecture, different content. Learn Part 5 in detail, then read 6 and 7 for what changes. Time to Talk carries an extra requirement: check with the HR lead in advance and have your signposting document to hand. That one is not optional.

Licence

front matter

Licence terms and responsibilities

Sits before the Contents rather than in a numbered Part, so it is easy to skip. What you may do, must do and may not do. Read it twice and know it precisely. This is not a section to improvise from.

Part 8

8.1 to 8.2

Facilitator reflection and close down

Post workshop checklist, reflection prompts and your own decompression. Two pages. Read it before your first session and use it after every one.

PRACTISE OUT LOUD BEFORE YOU FINISH

Reading a script is not the same as saying it. This is the part people skip and then wish they had not. None of it takes long.

- | | |
|---|---|
| ☐ Read the Step 6 script aloud at the pace you would use in a room, not at reading speed | ☐ Run one step with someone playing a scribe. A partner, a friend or a colleague is fine |
| ☐ Put the folder down and deliver the mat introduction from memory. It will be rougher. That is the point | ☐ Ask them to go quiet or dominate partway through, and practise the responses from the Quick Start Guide |
| ☐ Practise the opening until you can do it without looking, including the power is in the pen | ☐ Say out loud what you would do if someone became distressed or chose to leave |

CHECK YOURSELF BEFORE YOU SIT THE ASSESSMENT

If you can answer these without going back to the guide, you are ready. If you cannot, you know exactly where to return to.

- | | |
|--|--|
| ☐ What is the difference between Say and Ask, and why does it matter? | ☐ What are the timings across a 120 minute session? |
| ☐ What are the 4 Ps? | ☐ What must you do before delivering Time to Talk? |
| ☐ What is the scribe's role, and what problem does it solve? | ☐ What would you do if a participant chose to leave the room? |
| ☐ What is the personal hub for, and what is the generation effect? | ☐ Name three things a licensee may not do |
| ☐ What happens at Step 6, and how long does it run? | ☐ What is the hand clap for? |

THE ASSESSMENT ITSELF

- 60 questions, up to 60 minutes, taken online
- 75 per cent to pass
- You will have your folder and your notes with you
- Sit it somewhere quiet and uninterrupted

This is about whether you can facilitate well, not whether you can memorise. Having the folder open is expected, which is why tabbing it as you study is time well spent.

If you do not pass first time you can sit it again. It happens and it is not a problem. The result will tell you where you went wrong, so go back to that Part rather than starting over.

If you get stuck

Everything is in the online hub, including an electronic version of the guide, marketing tips, feedback forms and participant certificates. If you would rather ask directly, email facilitators@huunuu.com or raise it on your onboarding call. Nobody expects you to work this out alone.
